Distribution to Fit your Needs

As the digital information flow is still expanding, the transition between electronic and hardcopy documents must be seamless at all times. As easy as they are copied, scanned documents can be filed for later retrieval, or delivered to any location worldwide, via shared network folders, e-mail or the web (using FTP). To reduce network traffic, heavy files can first be downsized into high compression PDFs which maintain excellent image quality and keep overloads to a minimum.
